Market Commentary

Since finalising this quarter's performance reports, markets have experienced extreme volatility largely driven by uncertainty surrounding proposed tariffs from President Donald Trump. Market reaction reflected concerns over potential trade disruptions and inflationary pressures. However, in recent days, a pause in tariffs for most trading partners contributed to a rebound across equity markets. Our portfolios have participated in this recovery, with several positions regaining ground lost earlier in the period.

Global equity markets were weaker in the March quarter as the US announced trade tariffs for China, Canada and Mexico increasing the risks of a global economic slowdown. In early April, 'Liberation Day' escalated this with a minimum 10% tariff on countries and additional measures where the US has large trade deficits such as the European Union and China. This led to the S&P 500 Index suffering its largest weekly drawdown since the pandemic. President Trump subsequently paused the additional tariffs on most trading partners for 90 days, although increased China duties to 125%. This in turn has seen China also raise tariffs significantly on US goods.

While certain companies will be more impacted, we view Australia as relatively well-placed given a 10% tariff level and the US only represents 5% of total exports. However, Australia will not be immune to a broader global slowdown and weaker Chinese activity is a concern given they are our largest trading partner.

Longer-term US bond yields have been volatile given fears of an increasing fiscal deficit and inflationary pressures. Given a significant rise in the 10-year yield to 4.4% in early April, this may have contributed to the pause in tariffs. The Federal Reserve has left interest rates in a target range of 4.25-4.50% since December, although will face a difficult balancing act if the US economy weakens and inflation rises. In Australia, the Reserve Bank of Australia (RBA) cut interest rates to 4.10% in February as domestic inflation continued to come down.

A pause in tariffs for most trading partners means the situation is not resolved and a slowdown in US and Chinese growth is a concern for the global economy. While a broad market sell-off may create longer-term opportunities for investors, earnings uncertainty means some caution is warranted. We expect markets will remain volatile near-term unless there is significant headway made in trade negotiations.

Portfolio Commentary

Over the March quarter, the Bank Bill Swap (BBSW) curve steepened following the Reserve Bank of Australia's decision to cut the Target Cash Rate by 25 basis points to 4.10% at its February meeting. The front end of the curve reflected the policy move, while longer-term rates remained relatively elevated amid global rate uncertainty and bank funding requirement.

Longer-dated BBSW rates held up over the quarter, with the 6-month tenor declining by 20 basis points. In contrast, shorter tenors saw more pronounced moves, with the 1-month and 3-month tenors falling by 23 and 29 basis points respectively, leading to a steeper term structure.

The Trust continued to favour 6-month term deposits, which remained attractive relative to shorter terms. Banks continued to offer competitive rates in this part of the curve, reflecting their ongoing demand for stable, medium-term funding.

As a result, the Trust's gross yield remained strong at 4.82% at the end of March 2025.
